NINE PERSONS INJURED IN TRAIN COLLISION NEAR THE SHATIN STATION

GUARD LEAPS FOR LIFE BEFORE HEAD-ON CRASH

PASSENGER AND GOODS TRAINS INVOLVED IN SMASH: FIRE BREAKS OUT IN ENGINE

NINE WERE INJURED, TWO FAIRLY SERIOUSLY, and considerable damage was done, when two trains belonging to the Kowloon-Canton Railway met in a head-on collision near the 9 1/2 Mile Stone at Shatin yesterday afternoon.

THE ACCIDENT, WHICH OCCURRED AT 3.13 P.M. at a spot between the residences of Mr. Ho Sai-wing and Mr. A. el Arculli, involved a goods train running on the special weekly schedule to Hankow and a passenger train No. 29 from Shumchun. But for the fact that the first-class carriage of the latter train, which bore the full brunt of the impact, was empty, the crash would almost certainly have resulted in an appalling casualty list, for this carriage—a slip-coach—was lifted off the ground by the engine of the other train, which burrowed itself into, and supported on its "nose," fully a third of the coach.

The back of this coach was also extensively damaged by the violent cannoning against the second-class carriage behind. It is fortunate indeed that this first-class carriage was unoccupied.

The cause of the mishap, as described by one of the crew of the goods train, was, that not having what he called an air "gauge" (explained as a kind of an emergency brake) the train, which should have stopped at the Shatin Station, where it should have stopped to let the oncoming train through.

THE INJURED
Lo Kim, 38, engine driver badly hurt knee;
Kan Yuk, 41, fireman, lacerated right ear and bruises;
Chui Lai, 38, carpenter, severed tendons;
Others hurt:
Lei Ming, driver and Tam Sau, fireman, bruises on bodies and feet;
And four others.

In the meantime, train No. 29, driven by Engine No. 3A, carrying 60 to 70 passengers, was coming through from Shumchun, and the two met with a shattering crash. Before the actual collision, the guard of the goods train, seeing the impending danger, leapt for his life, closely followed by the driver and the fireman.

The crew of the other train stayed in their cab and sustained varying injuries, while the majority of the passengers were thrown together in heaps and smashed onto seats and against the sides of the coaches. Miraculously the most serious injuries sustained were nothing more serious than cuts from the splintered glass that flew everywhere, bruises and shock. Of the three men who had leapt for safety, the guard escaped unscathed while the other two also received only minor injuries.

CHILDREN GIVE FIRST AID
The first arrivals on the scene were children of a nearby resident, some villagers, and a European lady who was passing in a car, but one of the St. John Ambulance Brigade vehicles arrived shortly later, followed by the police, and officials of the railway, who all aided in the rescue of the injured, some of whom were pinned under the wreckage. Three other ambulances got there shortly after.

GUERILLAS INCREASE ACTIVITIES IN KIANGSU PROVINCE

Numerous Small Villages Are Now Occupied

RAILWAY BRIDGE DAMAGED

Increasingly active operations of the Chinese guerillas in Kiangsu province during recent weeks are reported in a number of despatches received here.

At Tungai, north of the Yangtse River, the Japanese garrison forces are surrounded in three sides by the Chinese guerillas. The grip is now tightening and it is expected that the Japanese will be dislodged from the town shortly.

To the south of the river, a large area bordering Anhwei to the west and Chekiang to the south, with Kangian, Tungyang, Chinkiang, Chnyung and other cities as centres, is now overrun by Chinese guerillas.

Numerous small villages on the outskirts of these cities were now occupied by the guerillas who are extending their operations.

A large railway bridge and sections of rails at over a dozen places along the Nanking-Shanghai railway are claimed to have been damaged by these guerillas.

About 2,000 Japanese troops at Chinkiang, according to a report, were despatched to Nanking on July 11 for unknown purposes.

Three badly damaged Japanese warships, which were hit by the Chinese air force during its recent attacks on the enemy navy on the Yangtse, were seen limping badly downstream, being towed by a number of smaller craft. (Central News).

JAPANESE LOSSES ON YANGTSE

Hankow, July 14.
It is officially announced here that, during the fortnight ending today, a total of twenty-one Japanese naval vessels have been sunk by the Chinese air force on the Yangtse.

In addition to the above, nineteen other warships were damaged by Chinese air attacks and have since been towed to Shanghai for repair. (Central News).

JAPANESE SHIPS HIT, PLANE SHOT DOWN

An official announcement released here this afternoon states that one Japanese cruiser and three gunboats were hit and damaged by an undisclosed number of Chinese bombers during a raid in the vicinity of Tunglin on the Yangtse this morning.

During the air attack Chinese pursuit planes escorted the bombers engaged in a furious dog-fight with twelve Japanese planes which rose to challenge the Chinese air force, and shot down one of them.

All the Chinese planes after the completion of their task returned to their base in safety. (Central News).

Further Incidents In Haifa

Jerusalem, July 14.
Reports here from Haifa state that three further conflagrations due to arson occurred in that city yesterday. Enraged, the Arab population of Haifa moreover assaulted and seriously wounded two Jews.

According to another message two constables of the Jewish auxiliary police were wounded when a detachment of Arab irregulars attacked the Jewish settlement near Haifa.

Similar incidents are reported also from various other parts of the country. (Transocean).

No Olympic Games In Tokyo

Tokyo, July 14.

The Japanese Government has decided not to hold the Olympic Games in Tokyo in 1940. The Government's decision was announced by the Minister of Education this morning.

The Government, moreover, has abandoned the plan of holding the International Exhibition in Tokyo in 1940. Rumours that the International Exhibition would not take place in 1940 have been circulating here for some weeks but it had been hoped that the Olympic Games would, nevertheless, be held at the scheduled date.

A statement explaining the decision to postpone the International Exhibition declares that the Exhibition will be held after peace has been restored. (Transocean).

DEEPLY REGRETTED

Tokyo, July 14.
The Ministry of Welfare, which controls all sports in Japan, states that the announcement is most disappointing but has been approved by the public as an unavoidable wartime measure. The fact that the Games and the Tokyo Exhibition have been cancelled shows that the Japanese expect the hostilities in China to continue at least well into 1938.

The decision is deeply regretted in Japanese sporting circles. (Reuter).

CHINESE DOCTOR TELLS OF WAR EXPERIENCE

Escape From Hsuechow After Capture By Invaders

A vivid story of his escape from Hsuechow since its fall into the hands of the Japanese, is told by Dr. Ng Tin-fang, M.B., B.S., (Hong Kong University) who in June last year joined the Ministry of Railways and was assigned to duties at the Tientsin-Pukow Line.

At the outbreak of the Sino-Japanese hostilities, writes Dr. Ng Tin-fang, he was appointed to take charge of the poison gas section of the anti-aircraft brigade in the Pukow area. When a military base hospital was established in Puchen he was sent there for duty and remained at his post until the fall of Nanking and Pukow. Dr. Ng then followed the general retreat of the Railway personnel to Hsuechow where he rejoined the medical units.

The Japanese air raids on Hsuechow, at the beginning, were confined mainly to the lines of communication, the eastern and western railway stations. But from May 11 onwards, the raiders indulged in wanton destruction and bombs were rained off all parts of the city and the suburbs.

On May 12, the Wangkow and Leechow stations, on the western section of the Lunghai Railway, were suddenly attacked by Japanese tank and cavalry units and thus the only retreat west of Hsuechow was cut off.

The majority of the railway staff moved out and took shelter in the neighbouring villages but some, however, preferred to remain.

ATTACKED BY BANDITS
Dr. Ng then joined a party of 100, who were leaving for Fuli-chip, en route to Tszinglungpu, to the east of the city. On the morning of the third day of their journey the party was attacked by bandits, and as a result of this incident the party split, Dr. Ng's group retreating their steps.

Not long afterwards, Dr. Ng and his companion, Mr. Chen, (the others having dropped off on the return march) reached Fekutun and there joined the retreating army.

CANTON RAID CASUALTIES

Canton, July 14.
The official casualty figures resulting from today's raid is given as 200, including 96 dead, 80 missing and 144 wounded. (Reuter).

Canton Appeal To Peace Committee

Canton, July 14.
The Chinese Chamber of Commerce has telegraphed to the World Peace Campaign Committee, now meeting in Paris, that "to demoralise the people of Canton Japanese planes have raided an undefended commercial city continuously for the past fortnight releasing indiscriminately hundreds of bombs in the most densely populated residential and business areas, killing thousands of innocent and helpless men, women and children."

"Ambulance and relief workers are machine-gunned to prevent medical assistance being given to the sufferers."

"It was deliberate and barbarous murder on a terrific scale. Our military units are equipped to resist aggression but the civilian population and commercial centres are not defended and will remain so."

"We appreciate sympathy and consolation but we are in dire need of immediate and effective measures to stop Japanese wanton slaughter from which we appeal to you." (Reuter).

Count Haugwitz-Reventlow Makes Second Appearance At Bow Street Police Court

Count Haugwitz-Reventlow, aged 42, who gave his address as the Ritz Hotel, Piccadilly, made his second appearance before Sir Rollo Graham-Campbell at Bow Street Police Court on July 5, on a warrant issued at the instance of his wife. He was again remanded, on £2,000 bail.

The charge against him read, "Having used certain threats towards Countess Barbara Haugwitz-Reventlow, she apprehends she goes in danger of her life or some bodily harm that he will do or cause to be done unto her."

The Countess, dressed in black, occupied a seat in the court. Sir Patrick Hastings, K.C., and Mr. Roger Winn appeared for the Countess; Mr. Norman Birkett, K.C., and Mr. Vernon Gattie defended.

At the previous hearing, Mr. Birkett said the Count had not the smallest intention of causing his wife the least harm and had never made any threats.

Guerillas Break Into Jehol

Hankow, July 14.
A Tientsin report received here today states that Chinese guerillas operating in Hopei once broke into Jehol and killed a number of Japanese troops.

They have recently been engaging the Japanese at Kupeikow, an important Great Wall pass on the Hopei-Jehol border.

The report added that many men of the Chinese Peace Preservation Corps and peasants in Jehol have risen against the Japanese. (Central News).

England To Australia In Seven Days

LANDING as the sun was setting at 6.15 p.m. (local time) at Darwin, Australia on July 3, the Imperial Airways flying boat Challenger successfully inaugurated the first passenger and mail service by flying boat between Britain and Australia, having covered the distance in 7 days 4 hours, although the actual flying time was only just over 67 hours.

The Challenger, which arrived at Sourabaya ahead of schedule, started at dawn and alighted en route at Bima, where she was welcomed by the Dutch Mayor of Koepang.

The weather, which had hitherto been bright and warm, changed immediately after the Challenger had left Koepang.

She ran into thick clouds which she only surmounted by flying at a height of 13,000ft.

The 500-mile flight across the Timor Sea was made over a two-mile bank of cloud, and the Challenger flew at an average height of between 12,000 and 13,000ft.

The last stage of the flight was a race against time, owing to the necessity of reaching Darwin before dark.

At the last minutes the Challenger, which had accompanied the Cordella from Karachi, was chosen instead of the Cordella to cover the last stages of the route between Singapore and Sydney.

This section is in the hands of the Qantas Empire Airways of Australia, and, at Singapore, Mr. G. U. Allen, one of the Qantas senior pilots, and an Australian crew took over the Challenger from the Imperial Airways' crew.

INSTANT DEATH PENALTY
The route taken by this Division was from Peisien towards the south until they reached the Peking-Hankow Line. They took shelter by day and marched by night. The strictest discipline was maintained and the columns retreated in complete silence. Troops were not allowed to fall behind, neither smoke nor make a noise, and any violation of these precautions meant instant death as it would have endangered the whole Division.

The retreat to the south was commenced on the evening of May 18. Dr. Ng continues his narrative, until they reached Suchow. They then crossed the railway and went in a westerly direction. Strange things happened when they slipped through the enemy lines, for although the Japanese knew they were there making their retreat they (the Japanese troops) did not fire a single shot. This was probably due to the fact that they did not know the strength of the retreating Division.

SURPRISE ATTACK

One night, one company of the Division was attacked, from the rear and as a result lost about fifty men, while on another night the Japanese launched a surprise attack but, following a fierce engagement, were finally repulsed.

The Chinese Division crossed three rivers, the Kule, the Kwo and the Few, and, after having traversed the Kule River, they discovered that the ground barks left by Japanese tanks and these led in the direction of Su Sien and Yung city, showing where the enemy had gone.

On May 25, writes Dr. Ng, the Chinese Division reached Seung-kau-chap, 50 miles south of Pochow, where they rested. On the afternoon of the same day they resumed their march westward again. By this time they had completely crossed the Japanese lines and were approaching their own defence lines.

SORE FEET

Dr. Ng's feet were so sore by now that it was not possible for him to proceed any further and he decided to remain at Seungkau-chap overnight with Mr. Chen, the hospital warden.

An unfortunate incident occurred. Dr. Ng and Mr. Chen being searched by a group of volunteers, and as each had a map on his person, they were detained on suspicion of espionage. The volunteers took away everything they had including the $100 which the bandits had previously missed in their search.

TOGETHER WITH A TRAITOR

Dr. Ng and Mr. Chen were placed in a house where they found themselves in the company of a real traitor with his hand and feet firmly bound. A casual glance by Dr. Ng led to the discovery that this poor unfortunate had previously received a cervical puncture and injection from the Japanese, as this was easily discernable about the neck, but Dr. Ng could not tell what injection the man had had.

On May 30 Dr. Ng and Mr. Chen were at last liberated and were each given $10 for travelling expenses. Passing through Chen-chow and Chowkiakow, they reached Yenching on the evening of June 2, completing the journey—a distance of 360 miles—in less than four days.

On June 3, Dr. Ng and Mr. Chen boarded a train bound for Hankow where they arrived at 8.50 p.m. the following evening in safety after a journey harrowing in the extreme.

PASCO CLAIM AGAINST H. K. TRAMWAYS FAILS

Conductor Justified In Giving Emergency Signal

Judgment for defendants, with costs, was given by the Acting Chief Justice, Mr. Justice R. E. Lindsell, at the Supreme Court yesterday in the case in which Miss Patricia Pasco, through her father, Mr. B. Pasco, sued the Hong Kong Tramways Ltd. for $10,000 as damages received on one of the company cars.

The claim alleged that Miss Pasco was thrown down the stairs leading from the first-class compartment as a result of the sudden and violent stopping of the car, and received injuries which made her shoulders uneven. The defence denied negligence and contended that the sudden stopping was due to a third-class passenger being dragged along the road.

Mr. H. Somerset Fitzroy, instructed by Mr. Peter H. Sin, appeared for plaintiff, and the defendant company was represented by Mr. Eldon Potter, K.C., on the instructions of Mr. O. E. C. Marton, of Deacons.

THE JUDGMENT

Giving judgment, His Lordship said: In this action the plaintiff seeks to recover from the defendant company a large sum as damages for personal injuries sustained by her in November, 1937, which injuries she alleges were the result of negligence on the part of the Company or its servants.

I have already held that in respect of Nos. 1, 3, 4, 5 and 6 of the particulars of negligence set out in the statement of claim there is no evidence whatever that can justify me in finding that either the defendant company or any of its servants were in any way negligent.

It remains to consider whether there is evidence to support the remaining allegation (No. 2 of the particulars of negligence) that the emergency brake was in the circumstances of this case improperly applied, reading that allegation (in a wider sense than it was, I think, originally intended to convey) to mean that, it having been established that the brake was applied with resultant injuries to the plaintiff, there is "prima facie" evidence of negligence within the rule laid down in the case of Angus v. The London, Tilbury and Southend Railway Company (22 T.L.R. (1908) p.222) and that the onus of showing that the brake was properly and reasonably applied without any blame attaching to the defendants is upon the defendants and has not been discharged.

NO PRESUMPTION OF NEGLIGENCE

I agree that Angus' case turned entirely on this point. The Court of Appeal held that the plaintiff had established a "prima facie" case of negligence on the part of the defendants by showing that there was an unusual and violent stopping of the train which caused him the injury complained of.

The "reason decidendi" here is not far to seek. A railway company in the main runs its trains over its own property and is therefore "prima facie" responsible for anything untoward happening on that property which has led to an accident. I conceive, however, that the position of a tramway company which runs its trams along public thoroughfare, on which its normal functioning is obviously liable to outside interference, is entirely different and that the sudden and violent stopping of a tram would not therefore give rise to any presumption of negligence in the company.

UNCONTRADICTED STORY

On this view of the law the onus of establishing negligence has been throughout on the plaintiff and clearly has not been discharged. However, that may be, if the onus here was on the defendant company to show that no negligence of theirs contributed to the accident, I am satisfied that that onus has been discharged. I have already indicated that I accept in the main the conductor's uncontradicted story and see no reason to doubt his version of the happenings that led to his giving the emergency signal, and in particular his explanation of his failure to prevent the boy passenger from alighting from the tram while it was in motion. I consider that explanation reasonable and credible and am satisfied that in the circumstances the conductor could not have done more than he did.

In Angus' case the plaintiff won and held his verdict because the jury disbelieved the evidence of the railway servant who sought to show that he was not to blame for the presence on the line of a passenger at the moment when the express which had to be pulled up, was approaching, and their disbelief seems to have been based largely on the failure of the defence to call the passenger as a witness. Here the non-appearance of the boy passenger is more than explicable and understandable.

NO ERROR OF JUDGMENT

I am satisfied also that the conductor made no error of judgment in giving the emergency signal to the driver but was fully justified in so doing. In this respect his position seems to me to be far stronger than was that of the owners of the s.s. Highland Loch (1912 A.C. p.312) because he had no reason whatever to anticipate danger to anyone as the result of his action and can be held therefore, not so much to have chosen the lesser of two evils, as to have done what was necessary to minimise the one evil of which he was cognisant.

There will therefore be judgment for the defendant company with costs.

Nothing can be more distracting to a woman than ugly pimples, burning irritations or patches of blackheads or enlarged pores on the face or neck. Some resort to heavy powdering in an effort to hide them; whilst others cause the skin to become muddy-looking, coarse and blemished by using the wrong treatment.

To make your skin clear and healthy, to "cleanse" clogged facial pores, remove blackheads and pimples and to make your complexion clearer and smoother, use Cuticura.

Cleanse the skin with Cuticura Soap twice a day. Its luxuriant and mildly antiseptic lather is soothing and softening; washes away pore-deep dirt which causes blackheads, enlarged pores and ugly complexion defects.

To rid the skin of pimples, skin outbreaks, rashes or irritations use Cuticura Ointment direct on the affected part before washing with the soap. Its antiseptic action kills germs, soothes and heals and quickly clears the skin.

CONFIDE IN FAITH PRIOR

THREE OF US describes an intimation for another man's wife. A great number of years younger than her husband. There is a child. The wife apparently wants husband. "Old and lover, and the lover is a child of accepting a position which will throw the pair together. Three Of Us would be unwise to go dangerously into her company. And if there is not a clear road to a courageous and open separation there is no decency or self-respect in a clandestine affair. The husband does not deserve that treatment.

CROSSROADS is a middle aged wife whose husband has changed completely towards her. Should she go away and give him freedom, even though it ends her essential life?

I think not, from your careful and long analysis of the situation. He is apparently passing through a stage of transition which gives to many a neurotic disinterest in living and causes revulsion from the one once loved. Hundreds of wives are troubled by the same tragically upsetting experience in their homes.

You must regard it as a kind of mind-sickness which, with proper handling, will be cured, most probably by patience and time and by not accentuating the disturbance by calling attention to it. His moods are difficult to endure, I know. But try, and, if he gets worse, see a doctor well-versed in psychiatry as well as medicine.

GRATEFUL is afraid for her daughter, a good and honest girl who does not indulge in any of the modern excesses, but is apparently fascinated by some newly met friends that go.

There is nearly always a fascination for the carefully brought up girl in the more sophisticated mind. Do not in any way appear to object to her seeing these people, who might be very nice, but not according to your standards. Some of us have different ways of living from others, but nobody is to say which might be right or wrong. Older people with balance and their perspectives put right by time and experience may use the more modern notions safely, while the young and untutored plunge in stupidly and come to grief.

Let her go to see these people, if her fiancé goes with her. The novelty for your girl will soon exhaust itself if she is not restrained.

SCRIBO, after writing a novel and sending it to a publisher, reverts its return without much explanation, and says there must be favouritism, as her book is better than many published.

Thousands of manuscripts go yearly into the many publishing houses of the world. Readers are paid to assess the merits of the novels and to see if they promise profit for both author and publisher, and are only too glad to get hold of a good one. Many poor specimens of the modern novel are published at the author's expense, and this is a costly business.

It is a foolish way of trying to break into print, because a poor novel will quickly be forgotten. All writers require perseverance and must expect incessant disappointment. Moreover, it is both a credit and an art and needs years of study, practice and diligence and intense care with revision. And your grammar, as you ask me, is not good so try again.

DISAPPOINTED IN LOVE: Regarding your letter of last week. Are you positive you are in love with this man, is it mutual?

Then go to your father, speak calmly and sensibly to him. He was in love with your mother, you know; recall his youth to mind.

Put your situation in his hands, ask him for advice. He will be flattered, soften, and help you.

Invite your young man to meet your family, make it an evening call, and short, or Sunday tea, but do not be obvious about your invitation. Make it casual, and be at ease.

Above all things keep your temper, be a bit reserved and have a little dignity. When you lose your temper it means someone or something has the best of you—be above that even if you must pretend. If I can help you again please let me hear from you.

Dear Faith: I am a boy. I have been in love since July 3 with a girl who is employed. And now after all the hours of happiness, she disillusioned me at a sailing party the other night. After leaving the boat the young lady took transportation, alone, to her home. I had not planned on speaking to her for having executed such an unconventional escapade, but she informed me that I was in the dog-house, of all things.

Dear Worried: The date of your letter is July 10. Does love blossom in seven days? I am sure from the young lady's action that you must have given her cause for dispensing with you as an escort. Forget some of that ego you evidently possess and make an apology, otherwise, you might become very cramped in that "dog-house."

(Each week in this column, Faith Prior answers questions of a personal nature submitted by readers of the Daily Press.)

Round The Shops

All the monthly bills are paid—ah! and you have $50.00 left over? But it burns holes in pockets. So lend an eye we will give you an idea or two for investing purposes. Sparkling Gadgets

All things that sparkle do not cost a lot of gold. You will find that so in the new small section in one of the specialty shops just opened. Rhinestone, clips and buckles, earrings, bracelets and small ornaments for dress and hats. These gadgets have the non-tarnishable backs which make the stones show up brighter. The prices are quite reasonable. $3.55 and up.

Cinema Styles

The hat your pet motion picture actress wore in that last picture took your eye! Then take yourself to one of our hat shops and cast your eyes about a new shipment of bonnets has just arrived and many are copies from those worn by the "flicker gals."

Off the face sailors with chiffon crown trim; small crowns of straw with flowers growing on the tops; the stiff sailor with veil trim, of course; and a morning hat in lacquered straw with posies and veil. The dark colours predominate. This shop is looking into the September days and so should you.

Knick Knacks

Belts, bracelets, clips, fobs and checkers all do things for the costume and the soul. You never can have too many of these articles, which add the dash to a sombre or plain outfit.

In one of the Colony's larger emporiums, patent leather belts in colours narrow and wide, and with various joining arrangements were found. The raffia and string belts and the kids are in a good selection. All of these are washable, too.

Charm bracelets do charm. This same shop has a few very different ones and not so expensive. The charms are in wood and a composition called bakelite. Clips in wood, bakelite and cork are very snazzy. A prize set of chocker and bracelet in three colours of shot beads, copper, gold and silver is a knockout as a distinctive accessory.

A yard-square chiffon print kerchief worn over the head peasant style, round the neck, roughneck style, or used as a sash on solid coloured dresses, should be owned by all of you. They are very flattering and can be put to so many uses.

We will be using halters for days to come, with beach aprons, skirts, culottes and slacks. The "Air-Text" in checks and stripes are very comfortable—plenty of material for the back hitching and cut very well under the arms. As you all know they are ideal for sports and any arm-waving activities.

Cooling Vesties

Suits are always trim and smart but, with the blouses, hot these days. One of the smaller shops has a good selection in vesties which eliminates double thickness at the back and makes things so much cooler. Organdy, lace, and lightweight linens are tailored into very attractive styles and give you a very fetching front to the suit.

This same shop is carrying on with their sale. More beach days are in store and a new set of beach togs can be purchased at almost half the price of a month or so ago.

Playsuits, slack and blouse ensembles, and a few drindls are all on sale, and still in fair selection to choose from. Small prints, checks, large Tahitian prints, and solid colours predominate in these clothes made for fun.

Beauty Paint

The "Boyer" Line, (American) has one of the tops in lipsticks. Encased in two-coloured enamel container, square, the indelible cream foundation "Cherry" lip rouge will keep your lips from drying and provide a blending shade for your summer sun-tan.

(Any information pertaining to these items may be obtained from Barbara Lee, 34251, or enclose a self-addressed envelope to The Daily Press.)

There is no middle road for smartness; either you have zip and dash or nothing. The summer costumes are very plain but you must put your mind to the business of finding the different apparel items which make people look three times at your ensemble. Take note of the "highlights" of summer fashions and use them to your advantage.

Snow drops to keep you cool and fresh—no matter how hot it is wear white flower jewellery. A necklace and bracelet set of porcelain posies worn in place of perishable collars and cuffs. They are dead white. A fine contrast, too, for sheers of any colour and black net, cocktail or dinner dresses.

An epidemic is on for pastel kid sandals. In daffodil yellow, candy pink, bachelor blue, firecracker red and in the baby shades and tender tones. All the lovely colours of the rainbow have drifted seaward.

These slippers are dressy. The kid is soft as silk, is draped, pleated, and twisted around the foot. The sandals are open toed and open heeled. Dainty feminine footwear with high heels. A splash of colour of the latest kind and it does much to the costume.

The Strongest Vogue in recent years has been the peasant influence. Here it is adapted to a dinner gown designed by Dolly Tree for Mary Astor to be worn in a new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture. Of light-weight wool crepe; the leaf green skirt is gathered for fullness and is slightly longer in back. The wrap-around belt is of rust and matching green silk crepe. The black wool blouse features a slit neckline and full sleeves, caught tightly above the elbow. The woven jewellery is of dull gold.

A WHITE SUMMER

Everything and everyone is going pure this mid-season. It is WHITE and more WHITE. Pure as the driven snow. Unrelieved white. White organdy, white chiffon, white marquisette without a single note of colour to tone it down.

Summer Evenings of 1938 are expressed, in terms like these: Gowns cascade, skirts flounce, clouds of material float. Frocks sweep across the floor and sway to Boyer adheres to the skin even in our windy weather. Several shades are offered of this powder, which is made of costly ingredients. For your purse, Boyer produces a handbag-size tube or box at 25 cents. You will find this a god-send on overnight or week-end excursions.

Bourjois offers you another handy beauty gadget. A perfume flask to fit your purse in dark blue glass with a non-leakable screw top. Of course, Bourjois de Paris is in the container in about one ounce quantity, and when that has been used refilling is possible. This, too, will be useful on twenty-four hours away from your boudoir.

(Any information pertaining to these items may be obtained from Barbara Lee, 34251, or enclose a self-addressed envelope to The Daily Press.)

the rhythm of the band. Hems billow and spread.

Shoulders are bare—oh, completely bare. The strapless formal is the thing of the moment. Held up with stays or elastic. Positively a non-top dress. Daringly beautiful, very much like a picture. Materials for summer formals—strapless, or if you must, otherwise—sheer cottons, dotted Swiss, net, lace and chiffon.

THE BRA

What about the "bra" for these strapless gowns? Never worry, a new evening brassiere is made that can be worn three ways. May be worn with straps over the shoulders, with the straps as a halter or without any straps at all.

The drindl is a love. Here is something that is a "must have" for your wardrobe. It is replacing the beach coat. The handy style for a.m. at home, and a daytime favourite. The patterns are as quaint as the styles.

New sports jewellery—cork and nuts!—That's not a crazy combination at all. For the first time in history, probably, this jewellery combination is used exclusively for rough-it clothes.

String your wrists and neck with cord from which dangle lacquered nuts that are really good, kitchen varieties of hazel, niggertoes, almonds, peanuts and such. They are crude but clever.

CORKS ARE TOPS

Corks have more uses than to stop bottles, it seems. If they are halved and painted with bright Indian-like colours and strung on hemp cords they make fine gadgets to decorate your slipover sweaters, your sport shirts or your slack suit with.

Nuts and corks are two definitely active sports accessories. Don't wear these crude things in town to shop—but no longer wear dresser jewellery for sports, to the beach or yachting.

The dresses without collars—here is a perfect excuse for wearing a varicoloured chiffon scarf and carry it out further in the head bandeau or turban.

A pull-over shirt is very good with your slacks. White with wide blue stripes (or fine ones) such as the old sea-salt would wear are the most popular ones.

Town clothes this year have fullness and flares—pleats and swing. The skirts are young and constantly awaying.

Have you noted the conspicuous absence of collars? Now nearly all coats and lots of jackets are without them.

The bolero and fitted three-quarter coat are very much in the picture for trimness and zip.

The combination of sweat-shirt and cardigan is a good bet. Have several in different shades—very good for sports, after tennis, motorcycling, after swimming or to wear with a pair of slacks at 6 or 7 a.m. when walking 'cause you can't find that sleep.

STUD DRESSES

The stud dress is very good—but try for the new studs. Very amusing would be a set of elephant studs same in colour or each a different one.

Cotton, deep-ribbed in a pull-over, various bright shades with a monogram and blending in the soft little socks, deep-ribbed with monogram—all same but very different.

Now, just a word about the flesh and bones that will be the foundation for all this individuality. Keep that hair short and going towards the sky. Up and up with a few set small curls at the nape of the neck if necessary. Keep brushing that mop of hair, it cannot hurt the curls, real or artificial.

BAN CLAWS

Watch the fingernails! Claws are out of fashion for summer. They must be oval and short. Do not run the polish down to the finger tip—and of the beach, tennis rackets, golf clubs or surf boarding will chip them, or the polish, off sure as a shot.

Massage those feet, rub oils into the skin, keep the nails of those

HOW DO YOU LOOK IN THE EVENING LIGHTS?

When the moon is out, your shoulders should be bare. Evening décolletages are fragile, soft and extremely low. For the strapless evening dress has hit the country with a bang. Away with shoulder blades that protrude like wings; flat breasts, the slapdash and the casual. When you go cavorting in the evening hours, go in for the "grande toilette" an immaculate skin, erect posture, and the proud little head of the belles of long ago.

No one is born with that soldier posture; your training has hardly been one of fragility; therefore a deliberate, quick-time effort toward the effect that you want is in order.

For the structural values. Swimming helps make breasts high and firm. Also those back swings in tennis. To eliminate shoulder blades and correct drooping shoulders, move as though a magnet from heaven were drawing you up, up, up, along your spine, along your nape, in a long graceful, little stretch skyward.

As for the surface, devote half an hour a day to your sun god. Allow him to concentrate on your legs; do not have the whole torso in his direct rays. You should become a pale biscuit colour with golden glints. Lift your hair up off the nape of your neck while sun bathing; your arms and chin, too; for not one silver of skin under the arms, in the crease of the elbows or around the hair line, must remain white. From the décolletage to widow's peak, should be one smooth spotless unity of dazzling beauty.

GRANDE TOILETTE

Your grooming, preparation for the "grande Toilette," starts with your bath. Not just a quick tub, but a bath with the pungent oils and creamy soaps and with a body brush to give your skin a glow.

When you finish this absolute spray your body completely with a good eau-de-Cologne, concentrating over your breasts and under your arms and at your nape so that as the evening wears on a refreshing mist of scent will continue to emanate toward the moonlight.

Now for fantasy. Place your rouge high; perhaps even a beauty spot or patch, high on the cheekbone. Luminous eye shadow—and if you draw a fine upward slanting line from the corners of your eyes, it gives them an unexpected enchantment. Pink-tipped lobes, and of course, earrings. Perfume of the same scent as your eau-de-Cologne, behind the lobe, at the nape on the brow.

Above all appreciate your own worth, and hold on to a goodly sum of amour propre. For, after all this you are no longer a hoyden. You are now a deliberate belle.

Then apply your base. It might be a liquid that has the powder in it. It might be a heavier, creamy liquid. It might be a paste. If you are inclined to a saddle of freckles across your shoulders, there is a cream that successfully covers freckles and darker blemishes.

Apply your base with the utmost care. Remember that triangle under your chin, that half moon behind your ears, the hairline at the nape; remember your elbows and your wrists and remember your under arms. A deodorant or a non-perspirant has never been more important than now.

Then dust yourself with clouds of powder. A gigantic powder puff should be one of your prize possessions as well as your amah. If you think you can make "the grande toilette" without assistance, take a look at yourself in the mirror some evening when you have dressed without help. If you do not take this remark seriously now, you will! Lacking an amah, try out your little sister or daughter. Or persuade your husband to co-operate.

Use judgement about your hair. Bare your nape only if it is perfect. Otherwise allow your curls to lie low, and when every curl is in place, give it a final set by spraying with the same eau-de-Cologne you used for your body.

Now for fantasy. Place your rouge high; perhaps even a beauty spot or patch, high on the cheekbone. Luminous eye shadow—and if you draw a fine upward slanting line from the corners of your eyes, it gives them an unexpected enchantment. Pink-tipped lobes, and of course, earrings. Perfume of the same scent as your eau-de-Cologne, behind the lobe, at the nape on the brow.

Dwindling Merchant Service

LORD LLOYD ON GRAVITY OF POSITION

Lord Lloyd presided recently over the luncheon and the annual general meeting of the Grand Council and members of the Navy League at the Hotel Victoria, Northumberland Avenue, says The Times.

Lord Lloyd, moving the adoption of the annual report, said the past year had been one of remarkable progress for the league. But in view of the additional work entailed by the Government's rearmament programme more work would be needed from the league, and he should like to see the membership doubled.

Some of them might think the Government had been dilatory in proceeding with rearmament and that the cost was now greater than it need have been if the advice of the Navy League had been taken 10 years ago. The Government decision to proceed with rearmament had not reduced the need for the Navy League.

The league would still maintain the closest relations with the Admiralty, without in any way offering advice on technical matters. But it would do all in its power to prepare the country to receive the doctrine of rearmament in the most enthusiastic way.

EXTREMELY GRAVE

The disruption of the Merchant Service needed the closest attention. The position was extremely grave. Our resources in passenger and cargo vessels were steadily dwindling, while those of our competitors were steadily increasing.

So far, he feared, neither the Government nor the public appreciated the gravity of the situation. Our Pacific shipping had literally been driven off the seas, and we had completely lost our supremacy in the Far East to India traffic. Where we once owned 80 per cent. of the traffic between the Far East and Bombay the position today was almost the opposite.

"We now had 20 per cent. and other countries had 80 per cent. We had been driven entirely out of the Baltic, and he doubted whether there was a single shallow-draught steamer being built for the Baltic traffic today in this country. We bought all the timber from Russia, and in all commodities we bought far more from the Baltic and Russia than they bought from us."

We ought to be in the position to say that those goods should be transported in British bottoms rather than in Soviet bottoms. We were being driven out of the coastal trade, and our fishing fleet was declining.

SEA CADET MOVEMENT

The league was paying a good deal of attention to the extension of the Sea Cadet branches. It was the only movement in the Empire, which from first to last insisted on discipline in youth training. The mind must be trained with the body. No physical movement had any value unless it had a spiritual impulse.

He paid tribute to Lord Nuffield's £50,000 gift to the sea cadet movement, as the result of which new branches had been initiated in 21 centres. Lord Nuffield not only gave money but took a practical interest in the movement. In recognition of this, on July 7 there was to be a sea cadet parade at Oxford, when Lord Nuffield would take the salute.

Commander A. Marsden, R.N., M.P., seconded, and the report was adopted.

Admiral Sir Sydney Fremantle proposed the re-election of Lord Lloyd as president of the league, and Lieutenant-Colonel E. Boyle seconded. It was carried.

Lord Lloyd, replying, spoke of the assistance he received in the work from Lady Lloyd. He also paid a tribute to the work being done by the chairman of the executive committee, Lord Beatty.

A resolution was passed supporting the council in plans it may adopt to educate the public on the importance of improving the numbers of the Mercantile Marine.

FASTEST FIGHTER
386 M.P.H.

A Vickers' Super Marine Spitfire single-seater fighter has flown from Southampton to London, a distance of about 60 miles, in 7½ minutes, at an average speed of 386 m.p.h., writes the Evening Standard air correspondent.

The monoplane landed at Bournemouth airfield.

The flight was aided by a following wind, but nevertheless, it indicates that the Spitfire is the fastest fighter now in production.

Like the Hawker Hurricane, with which several squadrons are now equipped, it has a Rolls-Royce Merlin liquid-cooled 12-cylinder engine of 1050 h.p.

NEW CLIPPER GIANTS

Vast Advance On Existing Aircraft

To prepare a "first line of defence" against the threatened competition of Europe's powerful air transport systems on the ocean trade routes Pan American Airways, in December last invited America's leading aircraft manufacturers to submit bids for the design and construction of a fleet of giant transoceanic aircraft.

In response to this invitation, four of the country's leading aircraft manufacturers—Boeing Aircraft Company in Seattle; Douglas Aircraft Company in Santa Monica; Sikorsky Aircraft Division of the United Aircraft Corp., Bridgeport, Conn.—submitted designs capable of meeting the specifications set forth by Pan American.

These were that the aircraft were to be capable of carrying 100 passengers, storage space for five tons of cargo, quarters for a crew of 16, and a non-stop range of 5,000 miles at speeds ranging from 200 miles per hour at sea level to 300 miles per hour in the stratosphere.

Recently the competing designers' concepts of what this aeroplane of tomorrow will look like were made public. While it is logical to assume that all of the astounding specifications can be met in the submitted designs, no comparative details of the various proposed aircraft could be made available since the designs are competitive.

STREAM-LINING

However, the designers' concepts, as made public, were sufficiently striking to show that all present existing aircraft have been rightly termed "the last of the little ships," and that today's designers have at last caught up with the most breath-taking visions of the most romantic dreamers of yesterday.

Stream-lining has been carried to a seemingly ultimate point in all these designs. Some are four, most are six-engined aircraft; all promise the aspect of "in flight" of giant ocean liners cruising swiftly through the clouds.

Interior drawings are equally impressive, with great staircases joining the various deck levels, with dining and dancing salons, cocktail lounges and bars and promenade decks, providing hitherto undreamed of time-consuming opportunities for the air traveller of tomorrow.

GRACE MOORE'S NEW MUSICAL

"I'll Take Romance" in which Grace Moore makes her long-awaited return to the screen, this time opposite the handsome Melvyn Douglas, is showing today at the King's Theatre.

As in her previous singing roles in "One Night of Love," "The King Steps Out" and "When You're In Love," Miss Moore is party to a romantic set-up, embellishing her role with renditions of several memorable operatic arias, the hill-billy ditty, "She'll Be Comin' Round the Mountain," and a love ballad bearing the film's title written especially for Miss Moore by Ben Oakland and Oscar Hammerstein II.

In the large supporting cast are Stuart Erwin, Helen Westley, Richard Carle, Margaret Hamilton and Frank Forest, the sensational radio tenor who recently appeared opposite Gladys Swarthout in "Champagne Waltz."

GINGER ROGERS SPECIAL

The troubles that beset a young college professor and his nightclub bride on returning to his staid home town and mid-Victorian parents, form the basis of "Vivacious Lady," in which Ginger Rogers and James Stewart are co-starred.

Stewart is cast as a botany instructor in a small university who visits New York in quest of his playboy cousin, James Ellison. The latter is on his semi-annual big-city spree, and this time he is engaged in a sit-down strike at a night club for the purpose of winning the attention of Ginger Rogers, featured entertainer.

Stewart finds his pleasure-bent cousin, but in so doing he falls desperately in love with the beautiful dancer and singer, who, amazingly enough, is similarly attracted to this serious-thinking young professor.

"Vivacious Lady" opens at the Queen's and Alhambra Theatres at the end of the month.

DON COSSACK CHOIR

In our issue of yesterday it was inadvertently stated that the Don Cossack Choir would shortly be playing at the Queen's Theatre, and afterwards at the Hong Kong Hotel.

The Cossack Choir will not be appearing in the Hong Kong Hotel.

WIFE, DOCTOR AND NURSE

Warner Baxter, Loretta Young and Virginia Bruce in the picture, "Wife, Doctor and Nurse," showing today at the Majestic Theatre.

WIFE, DOCTOR AND NURSE

The talents of three grand stars, Loretta Young, Warner Baxter and Virginia Bruce are brilliantly blended in "Wife, Doctor and Nurse," a gay, penetrating Twentieth Century-Fox drama with a catch in its heart and a twinkle in its eye, which opens today at the Majestic Theatre.

Two modern women who thought they could reason about love, and a man who wouldn't listen to reason, are the highlights of the year's most exceptional pictures, a gay, romantic story in the mood of today, which features an important supporting cast including Jane Darwell, Sidney Blackmer, Maurice Cass, Minna Gombell and Margaret Irving.

BURIED FORTUNE TURNS TO DUST

The primitive custom of burying wealth in the ground deprived a villager of his entire inheritance at Bulsa, Gwalior State.

Jaggu, the villager in question, after dividing the inheritance with his brother, turned his share into currency notes to the value of £262, and put it in a cigarette box. He then concealed it underground.

After six months he required a few notes, dug up the earth and opened the treasure box. It contained nothing but dust. The notes had crumbled away.

Miss Ruth McCracken, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. C. McCracken of Shanghai, received her bachelor of arts degree at Lake Erie College, Painesville, Ohio, on June 14. VICES AT SEAPORTS YOUNG GIRLS ACT AS DECOYS

A great clean-up of vice and immorality in Britain's seaport towns is promised in the near future as the result of recent surveys. Disturbed by the revelations in these reports, Mr. Leonard Rowden, high official of the National Union of Seamen, is taking a personal interest in the campaign. Britain took the lead in a worldwide movement to wipe out unsavoury dens which sprout like mushrooms in every dockside area, writes a Home correspondent.

"Disease, trafficking in women, exclusion of undesirables, the closing down of doubtful clubs and cafes, drugs—all these are problems which confront us," Mr. Rowden told a reporter.

"Although in a lesser degree in this country than abroad," he added.

"Police drives have wiped out many of these haunts, unlicensed public-houses and places of infamy are continually springing up in their place. For a deposit of 5s. anyone can secure a 'club' licence. Nevertheless, port authorities are, in most cases, far too lax. In the 'black areas' of our seaports—plague spots like Tiger Bay, Cardiff, and in the dark alleys and back streets of cities like Liverpool, Hull and Grimsby—the law may not, perhaps, be enforced with the same severity as in the better parts of the city."

DEPLORABLE

Mr. Rowden declared that a deplorable feature of dock life is the number of young girls, many of an age when they should still be at school, who act as decoys to the Somalis, Lascars, Chinese, West African and American negroes who arrive and depart in an unending stream.

For these "lost souls" and hundreds of their sisters, the starting point is "in the poverty-stricken mining valleys. They come to the city and fall beneath its glamour. Some go to their tragic destiny voluntarily.

But others are snared by procurers and white slave agents who trap their human cargoes by innocent-seeming, wily-worded domestic advertisements. And so the masquerade goes on.

Private "residences" stage nocturnal carousals. "Red Biddy," "Bombshell Brandy" and other home-made brews play their part. Befuddled patrons are robbed of their money.

Prince Alexis Mdivani, who died in 1935 after a mowing accident in Spain, left £600,000 according to a tax appraisal filed in New York.

One-fifth of the estate was bequeathed to Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow, formerly Miss Barbara Hutton, whom he married in Paris in 1933, and from whom he received most of his fortune. She was heiress to part of the Woolworth fortune.

ANGLO-ITALIAN AGREEMENTPremier Questioned On Its Coming Into Force

London, July 14.

Further questions were addressed in the House of Commons yesterday to the Prime Minister with reference to the date when the Anglo-Italian Agreement is to be brought into force.

When asked whether if date had not been determined before the House rose for the Summer Recess the Agreement would not be brought into operation until after the House reassembles and has discussed the matter, the Prime Minister said he could not give such assurance in the hypothetical circumstances contemplated in the question.

There would, he added, be the opportunity for further discussion by the House after a date, had been determined. He could give no assurances of any earlier date.

Further questioned, he added that he did not exclude the possibility of calling the House together during the Recess in order to discuss it.—(British Wireless).

COMMONS' INTEREST IN HONG KONG WORKERS' WAGES AND WELFARE

London, July 14.

The hours of labour and wages of Chinese workers in Hong Kong, and the Colony's infant and adult mortality rates, were the subjects of questions in the House of Commons yesterday.

The Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Malcolm MacDonald, was asked by the Rev. R. W. Sorensen, (Labour) whether he would institute a special inquiry into the social and industrial conditions of native workers in Hong Kong with a view to securing reliable information concerning the hours of labour, wages, and also the infant and adult mortality.

Mr. MacDonald pointed out that the Governor of Hong Kong, Sir Geoffrey Northcote, had recently decided to appoint a full-time labour official to the Secretariat for Chinese Affairs. Among this officer's functions would be investigations into the cost of living, rates of wages and local industrial conditions, to which the Rev. Mr. Sorensen, had referred.

As regards infantile and adult mortality, reliable information regarding deaths was already recorded in Hong Kong, but information on mortality rates was admittedly unreliable.

This was partly on account of incomplete compliance with the law for the registration of births (which was being remedied by administrative action) and partly due to the fact that a considerable section of the Chinese population of Hong Kong had no fixed habitation in the Colony.

In the circumstances, Mr. MacDonald said he did not think a special inquiry would be helpful.—(Reuter).

Consul's Brother's Death

London, July 14.

Mr. George Moss, British Consul General in Hankow, gave evidence at the Paddington Police Court yesterday during the inquest into the death of his brother, Mr. William Stanley Moss, who died from the effect of aspirin poisoning.

Mr. and Mrs. George Moss arrived in England from Hong Kong only a few days ago. They travelled down from Hankow to Hong Kong by a train which was involved in an air raid outside Canton, necessitating the British Consul General and his wife taking refuge away from the railway line while the raid was on.

In evidence, Mr. Moss said that his brother was an export merchant dealing with Japan. He had been worried about business since the Sino-Japanese hostilities, for his business had been ruined.

The Coroner recorded an open verdict on the ground that there was insufficient evidence to show whether the overdose of aspirin had been taken accidentally or suicidally.—(Reuter).

EXTRALITY STATEMENT MISUNDERSTOOD, SAYS JAPAN

London, July 14.

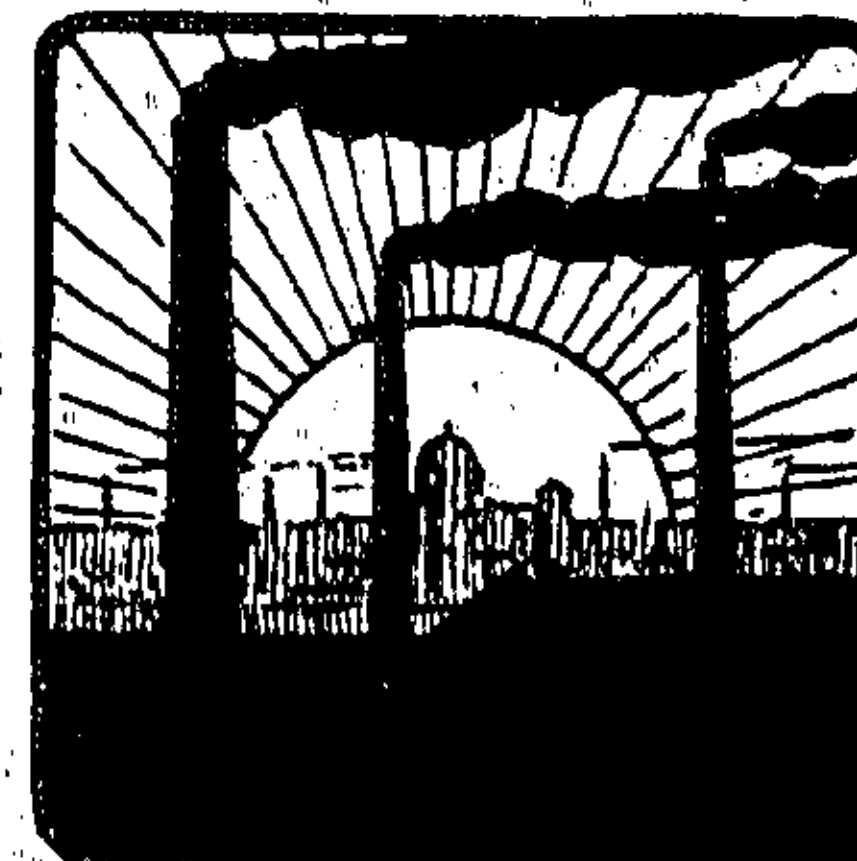

Attention was called in the House of Commons yesterday to a declaration by the Japanese spokesman in Shanghai that the Japanese Government intended to abolish extraterritorial rights in those portions of China which are in Japanese occupation.

Mr. R. A. Butler, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, replied that the Japanese Government had informed His Majesty's Ambassador in Tokyo that it had investigated the facts and ascertained that the statement of the Japanese spokesman was misunderstood.

The Japanese Government had no intention of using the present situation in China at present for denying extraterritorial rights enjoyed by Great Britain and other Powers vis-a-vis China.—(British Wireless).

BOMBING COMMISSION DIFFICULTY

London, July 14.

The Prime Minister informed the House of Commons yesterday that it had been found impossible to arrange for the formation of an International Commission to proceed to the scene of any aerial bombardment in Spain and to report the facts at the request of the Spanish authorities concerned.

The British Government, therefore, proposed to dispatch a Commission, consisting of two British nationals, for the purpose in view at the earliest possible date. The Commission would only proceed on the initiative of one or the other of the Spanish parties.—(Reuter).

FRENCH NATIONAL DAY CELEBRATED STUDENTS GOING TO ENGLAND

Firm Friendship With Britain Stressed

The French community of Hong Kong yesterday celebrated the 14th of July, the anniversary of the fall of the Bastille, with a reception held at the residence of the French Consul-General, M. Frank Dupuy.

His Excellency the Governor, Sir Geoffrey Northcote, and Lady Northcote attended, and there were present members of the Executive and Legislative Councils and the Consular Body, leading citizens of the Colony and many ladies.

Proposing the health of His Majesty, King George VI, M. Dupuy said:

The members of the French Community in Hong Kong as well as myself wish first of all to thank Your Excellency and Lady Northcote for the honour which you have kindly given us by your presence here today at the reception in the House of France organised for the celebration of our National Day.

We are all the happier for your "salutations." Is not this declaration the worthy representative of the country which has lavished its hospitality on us but also because the United Kingdom and France have maintained for a long time the most cordial and amiable relationship.

The manifestation of patriotic union furnished each year to the French communities established in foreign countries, by the celebration of July 14, is not only a simple and happy rest from our daily duties. It finds its noblest expression and the whole importance of its significance in the free and spontaneous turn of hearts towards the Mother Country; everyone of us—I now address my countrymen—in this day of anniversary, is impregnated by the glory and grandeur of the country we cherish, all the more the farther the seas are which separate us from her.

THE SAME IDEAL

For us, "la patrie" is not only that territory where we have our abode, our kinsmen, our friends, our interests, and the hearth which you English so well express in the word "Home," but it is also the habit of that independence and liberty so dearly acquired which is symbolised by July 14.

You have like us in the course of your history struggled for the same ideal and you have attained after a long evolution that liberty which is so dear to the hearts of the British, that liberty which you have realised for several centuries, long before any other nation in the world.

It is not surprising therefore that this common ideal of thought has allowed our countries to understand each other, appreciate and collaborate in an atmosphere of cordiality. In this respect, I shall call to your mind the words said last month by our Prime Minister, Mr. Daladier, at a congress at Lille where he said: "We do not want that occidental civilisation should join in the common sepulchre the lost civilisations." Is not this declaration a proof of this community of ideal which I have just spoken of?

COMING ROYAL VISIT

But if the community of ideal plays the ranking part in the life of the people, it has very often as a corollary the community of interests. This is indeed what happened in the problem of the points which could oppose us, we have attained since the beginning of the century, under the happy impulse of the great diplomat King Edward VII, this accord, this "entente," this harmony to which the British sovereigns have since remained faithful.

And since I am speaking of their august Sovereigns who preside over the destinies of the British Empire, let me state that France will show herself a worthy friend, when during the coming week she was staged in Hong Kong during last January: my wife and I spent an hour or so there with extreme pleasure and were delighted both by the beauty of form and the skill in execution which characterised every type and kind of exhibit.

Secondly there has come to Hong Kong, just in the nick of time for today's celebration, the first aeroplane in the new service which Air France is establishing between French Indo-China and this British Colony. We welcome M. Pucheu and his gallant companions very warmly and we wish them every success in their enterprise.

I hope that the forthcoming year will disclose other such new ties between us; and in that spirit I ask all present to drink with me to the health of President of the French Republic.

CELEBRATIONS AT CANTON

Canton, July 14. The French National Day was celebrated in fitting manner by the French community today with a reception at the French Consulate General this morning.

The French Consul-General, M. Simon, personally received the large number of government and civilian leaders as well as members of the consular body, who extended their congratulations.

Both General Yu Han-mou, Commander-in-Chief of the Fourth Route Army, and General Wu Tchen, Chairman of the Kwangtung Provincial Government, were unable to attend the function and sent their representatives.—(Central News).

FIVE CASES OF CHOLERA

Five cases of cholera, all from Victoria, were reported to the local health authorities on Wednesday, bringing the total number of cases so far notified to 140.

Eight cases of dysentery, seven cases of measles and two cases of enteric fever were also reported.

AIR RAID PRECAUTIONS

The Committee of the W.A.R.P.U. have arranged for instruction in the fitting and the wearing of gas masks in the Gas Chamber to be given at the Volunteer Corps Headquarters, by kind permission of the Commandant and Officers, from 10 a.m. to noon each morning from July 18 to 28 inclusive.

Times have been allotted to the various lecture groups but it is hoped that other people interested will attend preferably on Monday, July 25 and Tuesday, July 26. Entrance will be in Lower Albert Road.

Commencing on Aug. 9 a course of gas lectures will be held at the Helena May Institute each Tuesday at 11 a.m. and a course of first aid lectures at the same place each Wednesday, at 5.45 p.m.

The Thursday lecture at Kowloon Tong has been discontinued.

FORTHCOMING MARRIAGE

The following forthcoming marriage is announced:—Mr. Hong Lee, radio mechanic, of No. 70 Tai Po Road, second floor, Kowloon, and Miss Lo Tihon-khim, No. 10 Fort Street, North Point.

R.M.A. DAEDALUS

The R.M.A. Daedalus arrived on Wednesday from Penang with four British passengers, 275,583 kilos of mail and 3,000 kilos of freight.

Victoria League's Services

In 1931 a local Committee of the Victoria League, under the Chairmanship of the Colonial Secretary, was formed in Hong Kong and since that time has investigated many cases of students from Hong Kong proceeding to England who wished to avail themselves of the assistance offered by the League in London.

The assistance offered is gratuitous, and takes the form of meeting students, finding quarters, advising on educational matters and, as far as possible, helping in regard to admission to the Universities.

The League also gives facilities for visiting places of interest and generally in bringing students into contact with English social life.

The League reports on the health of students and will, if so desired, act as guardians.

PERSONAL REPORTS

Students are furnished with personal introductions to prominent people, and are given the opportunity of visiting The Houses of Parliament, Hurlingham, and Ranelagh besides attending many large receptions, dances and parties. The League will furnish personal reports on students under its care for the benefit of parents and guardians.

The report of Mr. A. G. Morkill, Joint Secretary for the Committee which concerns itself with students from Hong Kong and Malaya, for the first half of 1936 contains the following.

HALF-EDUCATED

"The students as a body are pursuing their studies in their usual cheerful way and most of them will make a success of them. There is still, in spite of propaganda, a tendency for half-educated men to come over before they are qualified to enter a University. It cannot be repeated too often that such men have great difficulty in gaining admission and should complete their education up to the necessary standard."

"It is only fair to point out that of the two recent cases of students sent down from Universities one came over in defiance of the advice tendered to him by the Victoria League and the other was brought over by his own headmaster without consulting the League. Owing to the action of the League Committees these cases are fewer than they used to be."

The local committee consists of—Hon. Colonial Secretary (Chairman), The Vice-Chancellor, University of Hong Kong (Vice-Chairman), Hon. Secretary for Chinese Affairs, The Director of Education, Mr. S. W. Ts'o, C.B.E., LL.D., Hon. Mr. T. N. Chau, C.B.E., Miss Alice Kwok, Inspector of English Schools (Joint Honorary Secretary, Hong Kong), Mr. Ts'o Tsun On (Joint Honorary Secretary).

Such persons as may wish to avail themselves of the assistance of the League should apply to one of the Honorary Secretaries, with a view to obtaining a letter to the Secretary of the League in London.

CHOLERA

A SHARP increase in the number of cases of cholera was reported by the Health authorities for the 24 hours ended at midnight on Wednesday. The five new notifications bringing the total, since January 1, to 138.

In this connection we have to again draw the attention of the public to the notification published in our issue of July 9, setting out the measures to be adopted in combating this dread disease and urging every member of the community to take advantage of the facilities offered by the Government for free inoculation.

It was learned from an authoritative source that up to yesterday only some 100,000 persons have been inoculated—this out of a total population of about a million, not including the hundreds of thousands of refugees who have flocked to Hong Kong since the beginning of the Sino-Japanese hostilities.

THERE must be thousands of people who hesitate to go for inoculation simply because of the fear that the reaction may cause some slight inconvenience—physically. For their own sakes, and for the sake of the welfare of the community, these people are urged to undergo inoculation immediately for delay may bring in its train something much more serious than the reaction after inoculation may prove to be.

Early in the summer, when but a few cases of cholera were reported, the Urban Council issued emergency regulations forbidding the sale of ice cream or cold drinks with the sole object of suppressing the spread of the disease. These orders have been complied with but what is still being condoned is the sale of cut fruit, jellies and preserved peaches, plums and fruits—all of which are exposed to flies and other carriers of germs.

The Chinese children of the poorer classes thrive on these eatables and even when a parent sees the young ones spending a few cents on them nothing is done. In some cases the parents themselves are the offenders in that they actually buy the jellies or fruits for the children.

EACH fly should be regarded as a probable carrier of the cholera germ, and special care, therefore, should be paid to the way in which the servants prepare the food before taking it to the table. Some of the "boys" or

FINANCIAL AID
FOR CHINA

Matter Of Complex Character

London, July 14. The possibility of financial assistance for China has been under consideration for some time past, but it is understood that the problem has been found to be of such complex character that much further examination will be required before any decision can be reached.

Consequently, it is now unlikely that there will be a public declaration on the subject in the near future. (Reuter).

ARCHBISHOP OF COLOMBO

The Rt. Rev. Dr. Jean Marie Masson, O.M.I., D.D., has been appointed to fill the vacancy of the See of Colombo.

The Rev. Fr. Masson was born at La Biolle, (Chambry) on March 21, 1876.

He studied at N. D. de Lumieres, from 1895 to 1897, and later at College de Rumilly. He made his novitiate at N.D. de L'Oster, on September 7, 1898.

The Oblation was at Rome on September 8, 1897. He was ordained by the Bishop of Luxembourg at Liege on July 7, 1901.

Fr. Masson arrived in Colombo on September 9, 1902, and served in the Archdiocese of Colombo in various capacities.

He was parish priest of Chilaw from 1911 to 1915, when he was on war service until 1919, and returned to Chilaw.

He remained there until 1929. Later he became Director of St. Vincent Home, Maggona, retiring in 1934, and on June 7, 1937, was unanimously elected Vicar-Capitular of the Archdiocese of Colombo.

LONDON RECTOR MADE AN ARCHBISHOP

It was announced recently that the Right Rev. Joseph Butt, Auxiliary Bishop to Cardinal Hinsley, Archbishop of Westminster, has been made an Archbishop. He has been given the titular 'See of Nicopsi.

Mr. Butt, who is 69, has been rector of St. James's Church, Spanish-place, W., since 1915. He is the eldest son of Mr. R.A. Butt, of Slough, Bucks, and nephew of the fourth Bishop of Southwark.

SEX-CHANGING HEN

The strangest fowl in Britain is owned by Mr. Tom Newman of Rudgwick, Secretary of the Scientific Poultry Breeders' Association. Born a pullet in 1935, it laid eggs at a reasonable rate till last year when it suddenly turned into a cock. This year it has regained its femininity and resumed egg-laying.

amans are not too scrupulously clean in their habits and it is in cases of this nature that all the precautions taken, such as the boiling of all milk and water, are rendered useless.

The authorities, while doing all in their power to combat cholera, cannot, possibly, carry out their work if co-operation is not forthcoming from the public. The Government has gone to the trouble of establishing stations where inoculation may be had free of charge but despite this the response has been most discouraging. There are still many persons who are satisfied that provided they take the necessary precautions in regard to food and drink, inoculation is not necessary. This view is not only wrong but also very selfish, for not only do they expose themselves to infection but they also might actually help to spread the disease by becoming carriers of the germ.

To the refugees in particular we make the most urgent appeal. They are here enjoying what protection that Hong Kong can offer them and in return the least they can do is to observe all the rules and regulations necessary for the welfare of the Colony. They must not only get inoculated, they must, whenever possible, stress the dire importance for each and every member of the community, to be inoculated also, for only by such means can we hope to prevent cholera spreading further.

Canterbury Festival

MARINERS' GIFT TO CATHEDRAL

A SERVICE OF THE SEA

The Canterbury Festival opened on June 28 in the Cathedral with a service at once dignified and impressive. "A Service of the Sea," it was held to mark the gift of a Red Ensign to the Cathedral by the Company of Master Mariners, says The Times.

It seemed that the "Friends" of Canterbury, who arrange the festival, filled every nook and cranny of the Cathedral, and even those in the worst places, must have caught just a glimpse of a magnificent procession which appeared positively to gain in colour from the surrounding greyness of the day.

An orchestra of Royal Marines was placed behind the high altar, and those accustomed only to an organ in cathedrals can have no idea how effective it sounded—involving the reflection that even the old minstrel's galleries must have produced lovelier sounds than are often supposed.

To the solemn beating of Handel's Concerto in F the civic processions, which included the Lord Mayor and Sheriffs of London, moved into the Cathedral and were followed as the music changed to Mendelssohn's Scottish symphony by the maritime processions, which included representatives of lifeboat crews, the Company of Shipwrights, and the Company of Master Mariners.

The Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports and the Lord Lieutenant of the County also took part in the procession. The Cathedral procession filed into place while Psalm cxli was being sung.

At 3 o'clock Admiral Sir Edward Evans, Commander-in-Chief, The Nore, struck Six Bells on the ship's bell of H.M.S. Canterbury which was hanging below a lovely model of the ship, on the right of the high altar.

After the singing of Blake's "Jerusalem" and Psalm xli, the Dean, standing in the pulpit, read St. Mark's account of Christ's quelling of the storm. The anthem, chosen most appropriately, was Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar," to the music of Sir Hubert Parry.

After prayers a further anthem was sung, the Evening Hymn of King Charles I. which contained the verse—

A quiet conscience in the breast
Hast only peace, hast only rest.
The music and the mirth of Kings

Are out of tune unless she sings.
During the singing of this anthem the Master of the Company of Master Mariners (Sir Robert Burton-Chadwick) and other representatives of the Company advanced to the high altar, followed by six quartermasters from various shipping companies bearing the Ensign.

The Dean accepted the Ensign from the Master "with pride and pleasure," and placed it on the altar, where it made a happy blend of colours with the scarlet of his Oxford doctorate.

RED ENSIGN DEDICATED

The Bishop of Dover, standing in front of the high altar, proceeded to dedicate the gift. In the course of a short address he explained that the Archbishop of Canterbury, who was to have dedicated it, was unable to be there owing to having been asked to be present at the Memorial Service in London to the Queen's mother. The Bishop happily expressed the sentiment of all who care for the traditions of Canterbury when he said that the flag of the mercantile marine was not unworthy of the company of the other trophies and relics which were hanging in the Cathedral.

The service closed with the hymn, "O worship the King," and "Land of Hope and Glory" was played by the orchestra while the various processions filed out of the Cathedral into an unwelcome shower of rain.

The Secretary General of the Judicial Yuan, Mr. Chang Chih-peng, accompanied by a member of the Statutes Committee of the Yuan, Mr. Fang Chung-li, arrived in Chengtu from Chungking on July 2. Mr. Chang is reported to have made the trip in connection with a plan for the removal of the Chaoyang Law College from Changsha to Chengtu.

COUNT HAUGWITZ-REVENTLOW PECULIAR MAN. SAYS COUNSEL

The Court was a peculiar man. According to evidence available he was man of violent and ungovernable temper, and most emotional. Besides threatening to shoot other people he had threatened to shoot himself. He had made large financial claims as a condition of leaving his wife, and at times had behaved in a most irrational way. A matter that had caused anxiety was that he at one time had a police permit to carry a revolver. This had now been revoked.

NERVE TREATMENT

His visit to France was for the treatment of nerve trouble. On June 18, in response to a telephone message from him, Mr. Mitchell went to France and told him that a separation was inevitable; that his wife was terrified of him and could not consent to his coming back. The Count raved about "a certain gentleman" whose name was mentioned in the information.

Mr. Birkett said he did not think it was desirable to mention the name of this man in court. Continuing Sir Patrick Hastings said the Count told Mr. Mitchell that his honour was at stake and that he was coming to England to fight a duel with the man referred to. He said that if he was not permitted to fight a duel he would shoot the man and "put his wife on the spot." He asked for enormous sums of money, and then he said he was going to shoot himself so that people might know it was his wife's fault. Mr. Mitchell became so alarmed that, although he had intended to return by train, he flew back to report the Count's state of mind.

He left the Count on the night of June 18 more or less cheerful, saying he thought perhaps after all a separation was unavoidable.

CLAIM ON SON

Next morning, when Mr. Mitchell saw him again, the Count was in a completely changed state of mind. He said he had been up a great part of the night thinking of this matter. He had had advice and was not going to have a separation, but would go at once to England and seize his son, who was his absolute property. He said no one in the world would stop him, and if his wife tried in any way to stop him all he could say was, "God help her and help us both."

"I need hardly say," said Sir Patrick Hastings, "that the child was at once made a ward of court."

EVIDENCE OF EMOTIONAL STORMS

Mr. William M. Mitchell, partner in the firm of Clifford-Turner and Co., gave evidence of being consulted by the Count and his wife. Answering Sir Patrick Hastings, Mr. Mitchell said he received a communication from the Count on June 9 and saw him at the Bath Club.

What was his attitude towards his wife on that occasion?—It was a very mixed attitude. At one moment he would abuse her in obscene language, and at the next he would indicate that nothing was too good for her.

"A FANTASTIC SUM"
Mr. Mitchell, describing the interview, said he told the Count, "I am afraid I have bad news for you." The Count replied: "Nothing like the bad news I have for you. My terms are the child and a fantastic sum." Afterwards the Count corrected himself and said what he intended to convey was that it would be a fantastic sum for the witness, and mentioned the amount. He then proceeded to use words about his wife and call her names.

Sir Patrick Hastings—And did he mention the name of one particular gentleman in London society?—He did.

Mr. Mitchell said the Count went on to say: "Duelling is too good for that," and he added: "I shall go back to London and shoot him like a dog."

Counsel—What about his wife? Mr. Mitchell—And "put, the Countess on the spot."

The Count had also said that he would take the child away from England for ever.

HUSBAND'S VOLUNTARY AGREEMENT

In cross-examination by Mr. Birkett Mr. Mitchell agreed that three years he had acted as solicitor for both the Count and Countess.

Mr. Birkett—Do you think it quite consistent with that position that he should speak to you in the greatest confidence about all these intimate matters and then that you should reveal them?—I think, having regard to the circumstances, it is perfectly consistent. Mr. Mitchell mentioned a New York agreement between the Count and Countess, and agreed that it renounced the right of the husband over certain income, voluntarily. The Countess, he said, was immensely wealthy. Until last spring the Count outwardly appeared to be full of consideration and kindness except for one occasion. This was in London in December, 1936, when the Countess was ill.

Mr. Birkett—In the spring of 1938, from the information which he gave you, he was seriously disturbed because, among other things, of the gentleman referred to by Sir Patrick Hastings?—Yes.

Mr. Mitchell said when he was called to Winfield House in June he was not informed that the Countess had made an offer to the Count of a very large sum indeed if he would permit a divorce to go through. At the end of the meeting the Countess said that she wished begones to be begones, and that of her own free will she wanted to make a gesture by settling a large sum on the Count for life.

"I STILL LOVE HER"

Questioned about the meeting at the Bath Club, Mr. Mitchell said the Count showed him a letter which was one of the matters that had grieved him very much.

Mr. Birkett: Did you express sympathy with him?—I don't think so. My feeling when he showed me that letter was that it was an infamous thing, to have taken his wife's letter.

Did he then say, "I loved her very much indeed, and despite everything I still love her and always will"?—Yes. He said words to that effect.

Did he say, "I would rather do anything in the world than lose her"?—I don't recollect that. That was the substance of it.

Dealing with the interview at Divorce on June 19, Mr. Birkett asked: Did you say, "I am authorized to offer you £50,000 if you agree to this divorce"?—

Mr. Mitchell—No, I did not. The £50,000 was not mentioned until the evening. At luncheon time he told me what he meant by the expression "fantastic sum." That was $50,000, I did not mention any figure; he brought up the question of the sum the Countess wished him to have. He asked what was the sum she had in mind. I told him that since the day when she was willing to settle £250,000 she thought it would be better to make him an out-and-out gift, and that the figure she had in mind was £50,000. He said it was laughable and an insult.

Mr. Birkett—What were the limits? Mr. Mitchell—One hundred thousand pounds.

During the interview the Count said he had been advised that there should be a settlement of 10 per cent. on the boy and 10 per cent. on himself, and added, "I am in no hurry for this matter to go through, but I do require the custody of my son."

CABARET GIRLS ROBBED

The night dance at the Cabaret over, three taxi dancers left the place shortly after midnight on January 20, and made for home along Geylang Road to Lorong 20. Joking and chatting all the way, the girls were not aware that, some distance behind them, three Chinese, on bicycles, were quietly trailing them.

When the girls turned into the Lorong, the three men also turned in.

The cyclists swept past the girls just as they were about to reach their home, and then rode back towards the girls. One of the men was alleged to have alighted from his machine and caught hold of a girl named Lai Man. The man, who produced a pistol, told Lai Man that he wanted her handbag. Lai Man gave him her bag.

As a sequel to the hold-up, on that January morning Lai Man appeared in the Fourth Police Court, Singapore, recently, on a summons for failing to report the robbery to the police.

Defendant claimed trial and the case was fixed for hearing on August 12.

Mr. Mendis appeared for the defence.

JAPANESE FAIL TO IMPROVE THEIR POSITIONS

Lion Hill Strongly Fortified

Hankow, July 14.

In spite of frantic endeavours yesterday and today the Japanese have thus far failed to improve their positions at Kluksang, at the south bend, which the Yangtse River makes before reaching Hankow.

The infantry was relatively inactive and the brunt of fighting was borne by the artillery and air force which bombarded Lion Hill incessantly. The hill has been so strongly fortified by the Chinese, however, that the intensive Japanese bombardment has so far failed to bring the Chinese batteries on the hill to silence.

The Chinese, moreover, prepared a strong system of field entrenchments in the adjacent region. Since Kluksang cannot be taken unless Lion Hill is captured considerable time will probably pass before the Japanese attain their objective.

The Japanese air force yesterday bombed not only Kluksang itself but also other towns in the neighbourhood.

The Japanese bombers also attacked Hankow at six o'clock this morning. A squadron of nine planes dropped numerous bombs on the Hankow aerodrome which, however, failed to do any serious damage. Some time later the Japanese planes also bombed Nanchang.—(Transocean).

UNSUCCESSFUL NIGHT RAID

Canton July 14.

A squadron of Japanese planes conducted an abortive night raid on Canton tonight under bright moonlight.

Taking off from their base at sea, the raiders first flew over Poonan and then turned their way towards Canton. The alarm was immediately sounded and necessary precautions taken.

Appraised of the preparedness of the Chinese authorities, the raiders retraced their way to Bocca Tigris and later to Whampoa to invade the White Cloud Mountains. A lone missile was dropped, after which they returned to their base by way of Tongkwan.

The "all clear" signal was sounded at 10.05 o'clock.—(Central News).

GARRISON BESIEGED

Shanghai, July 14.

The small Japanese garrison in Chuen-shan and Chucha Bridge, near Pootung, are holding out in the face of a siege by Chinese guerrillas in the expectation of arrival of reinforcements.

Chinese irregulars at Poonan, Taohsiang and Luchishang are pushing northward towards the Wosung Railway with Choo-poo as their objective.—(International).

MIDSUMMER STAKES

London, July 14.

The Midsummer Stakes (one mile) run at Newmarket today, resulted as follows:—

1. The Bittern (4 to 5);
 2. Mr. H. E. Morris's Pascal (3 to 1);
 3. Silver Spear (7 to 2).
- Three ran: won by two lengths, one length between second and third.—(Reuter).

King Makes Good Progress

London, July 14.

His Majesty the King continues to make good progress from his recent illness and is getting up from bed tomorrow. Their Majesties would have opened the hospital at Manchester but the ceremony is being performed by the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester.

Queen Mary attended a tea party at the Tower of London yesterday and all traffic on the Thames was cleared when the Queen sailed up the river from Westminster aboard the Trinity House launch.—(Reuter Bulletin).

greatest possible independence of supply should not bring with it a refusal to take part in international trade, which alone allowed the import of those vital products which could not be produced at home.

TECHNICAL PROGRESS

Experience had shown that technical progress went hand in hand with world trade. Apart from this, only increased international trade could provide gold and foreign exchange which, as had been shown in both the Abyssinian and Chinese wars, played an important part in modern warfare.

From the soldiers' point of view, however, the system of the international exchange of goods had its dangers to national defence which could not be overlooked.

Nether world trade nor economic isolation, however, could singly supply the needs of national defence. Therefore, not "world trade or self-sufficiency" but "world trade and self-sufficiency" were demanded by those who were called upon to defend the nation. The satisfaction of this demand would be extremely difficult in a world divided into economic units as it was today.

Given Opium As Wages

ALLEGATIONS AGAINST JAPANESE METHODS IN CHINA

London, July 14.

Allegations that Japanese employers in China were distributing opium to their Chinese employees in lieu of regular wages were made in the House of Commons yesterday by Mr. Arthur Henderson, the veteran Labour leader.

Mr. R. A. Butler, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, said that he had no information regarding Mr. Henderson's allegations, but promised to make inquiries if Mr. Henderson would communicate to him any report which may have reached him.

British Consuls throughout China have been asked to report on the alleged Japanese drug campaign. Mr. Butler revealed.—(Reuter).

TRADE AND WAR

LIMITED SAFETY IN SELF-SUFFICIENCY

In an address entitled "World Trade or Self-Sufficiency considered in relation to National Defence," which was read in Berlin recently to officials of the Reichsbank, Major-General Thomas, head of the Military Economic Section of the High Command, said that world trade and economic independence were not incompatible, and that a combination of the two was necessary if effective national defence was to be ensured, says The Times.

For some time before the War, said General Thomas, the considerations of national defence had little influence on economic policy. Only after the Great War had seriously disturbed confidence in world trade were the dangers of economic independence realized.

From a military point of view, a policy of building up reserves of material was necessary. Home production must be increased both by providing new means of production and increasing the productivity of those which already existed by "measures of self-sufficiency."

ABSOLUTELY ESSENTIAL

Reserves of foodstuffs, armaments, and raw materials were absolutely essential, but this policy of reserves entailed the tying up of large amounts of money. A country living in economic isolation, too, was often forced to take refuge in a policy of rising costs and diminishing returns, which required further investment on a large scale.

Finally, it was often necessary to employ far more workmen to produce goods at home than would be needed if they were bought abroad, a serious consideration in time of war.

The War had shown, continued General Thomas, that the countries most active in international trade had the greatest economic resistance. To strive for the

LOCAL TRADERS TO PROMOTE CHINESE GOODS

In response to a request from General Yu Han-mou, Commander-in-Chief of the Fourth Route Army, the local Chinese General Chamber of Commerce is considering measures for the promotion of Chinese goods on the Hong Kong market. Discussion on the problem will be held next Wednesday, says Central News.

WAR SECRETARY TESTIFIES

London, July 14.

Mr. L. Hore Belisha, Secretary of State for War, gave further evidence before the Select Committee now inquiring into the relations of members of the House of Commons as regards the Official Secrets Act.

This morning the War Minister continued his evidence which has hitherto occupied six hours.—(Reuter Bulletin).

Terrible Air Raid Over Canton

Canton, July 14.

The bloodiest scenes of last month were again enacted in the vicinity of the Pearl River bridge this morning when Reuter's correspondent visited the scene and found an indescribable mess of human remains mingled with the debris of Canton's most horrifying bombardment.

A huge bomb landed directly amongst a number of vegetable peddlars and market gardeners who were unloading their up-country produce from boats on the Bund when the explosions occurred.

Although a large number of corpses had already been removed, Reuter's correspondent counted amongst the surrounding shambles a total of 34 complete torsos, and it is believed that at least sixty were killed at this point alone.

Crossing the Pearl River bridge to Honam Island, further scenes of bloody desolation were witnessed and 41 corpses of poor-class boat-dwellers were laid out on the sidewalks.

Over a hundred wounded arrived at the Chungshan Hospital while the correspondent watched. Some were dying as they reached the gates of the hospital.

Three or four other hospitals received as many casualties.

It is conservatively estimated that 150 were killed and 480 injured in this morning's raid. The actual casualties are probably higher.

The courage and skill of the hospital doctors and nurses in the stupendous task of coping with the tremendous odds in the merciful and heroic work was a fitting tribute to the finest traditions of the Red Cross, apparently hopeless cases receiving prompt attention.—(Reuter).

181 DEAD IN WUCHANG BOMBING

Hankow, July 14.

The death toll in Wuchang as a result of the ruthless Japanese air raid on Tuesday is 181 and the number of wounded is put at 458.

Thirteen more badly-torn and mangled bodies were extricated yesterday. Ten who were critically wounded succumbed in hospital.—(Central News).

SCHOOLS HIT

Canton, July 14.

In this morning's raid over Canton, one bomb landed directly on the Chungyuan School on Mun Tak Road, killing three persons and wounding eight.

Another missile fell on the playground of the Sukching Primary School on Wuliang Road. The chapel nearby was partially damaged.

More than 30 bombs were released on the White Cloud Aerodrome.—(Central News).

COTTON WINS BELGIAN GOLF TITLE

Brussels, July 14.

The Belgian Open Golf Championship was won today by Henry Cotton who returned a score of 277 for the four rounds. This is a record and is two strokes better than the previous record which was also made by him.—(Reuter Bulletin).

LOCAL RELIEF BODY COMMEDED BY MDM. CHIANG

The local branch of the Chinese National Women's Relief Association, of which Dr. Irene Ho, daughter of Sir Robert Ho Tung, is chairman, has received a letter from Madame Chiang Kai-shek, who highly commends its work in collecting medicine for wounded soldiers and refugees.—(Central News).

Japanese Suffer Heavy Losses In Fierce Fight At Yinchangchen

CONCENTRATION AT LINFEN

Chengchow, July 14.

Large numbers of Japanese troops, despatched southward along the Tatung-Pukow Railway, are now concentrated in the vicinity of Linfen for fresh operations, according to military despatches received here.

These troops, it is said, represent the remnants of the Itagaki Division at Talerchwang. The division has now been reinforced. At Howma to the south of the Fen River, the number of Japanese troops has been increased to over 1,000 men. They have so far made no attempt to thrust westward against the Chinese defence.

More than 6,000 wounded Japanese troops, it is claimed, were recently sent northward by way of the Tatung-Pukow railway.

According to another military report, Japanese troops in the vicinity of Yangcheng in south Shansi suffered defeat at the hands of the Chinese during a fierce engagement fought at Yinchangchen, north of Yangcheng on July 13. Reinforcements were rushed from Chowsun but were successfully beaten back by the Chinese, the report says.

At the conclusion of the engagement at Yinchangchen, it is claimed, more than 500 Japanese were killed, thirty machine-guns seized, and thirty motor cars damaged. Large quantities of military provisions were also seized by the Chinese.

Up to the north at Tatung near the Great Wall, renewed Japanese activities are also feared. Large numbers of adults were press-ganged and mules and other beasts of burden forcibly taken away from the people.

In the vicinity of Hunyuan just outside the Great Wall in north Shansi, a part of a certain Chinese division made a surprise attack on a contingent of Mongolian troops and put them completely to rout on July 7. In the engagement, three light machine-guns and many rifles were seized.

Another detachment of the same division, raiding a Mongolian stronghold at Fengyu, succeeded in wiping out the entire mixed Japanese, Mongolian, and "Manchukuo" garrison there.—(Central News).

FRANCO'S DISCLAIMER CANNOT BE ACCEPTED

Further Elucidation Awaited By Britain On Bombings

London, July 14.

Further reference to General Franco's reply to the British Note on the bombing of British ships in Spanish ports was made by the Prime Minister, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, in the House of Commons yesterday.

Elucidating their first reply, the authorities in Burgos had now denied discrimination against British ships, and contended that ships engaged in contraband trade which entered dangerous ports exposed themselves to the consequences of their own temerity.

After pointing out that Great Britain would not be justified in enforcing effective protection in a military sense for British ships, Mr. Chamberlain said that the Government was not prepared to acquiesce in a repetition of the attacks.

"We have informed the Burgos authorities that it is impossible to reconcile their disclaimer of deliberate intention with the facts known in certain cases," declared the Prime Minister.

Mr. Chamberlain added that a further statement from the Burgos authorities was now awaited.

He disclosed that the Spanish Government had refused to accept the Burgos proposal with regard to the creation of a safe port at Almeria, and it seemed doubtful whether the proposal would go through.

The British Agent in Burgos, Sir Robert Hodgson, is at present remaining in London.—(Reuter).

CHANGSHA NOW ANOTHER NERVE CENTRE OF CHINA

Peace Loving Civilians Join Up For War Of Resistance

Changsha, June 28.

Changsha, busy and tumultuous capital of China's Hunan Province with 500,000 industrious and peace-loving inhabitants, is another centre of China's resistance; a centre of a man-power reservoir.

War, when it first broke out, was very far away from Changsha whose populace proceeded calmly with their peaceful occupations. But to their midst soon came people from other parts of the country—people who had to flee from their homes in the war zones. Thus the population of this city has been growing until now it has reached the half-million mark.

Many of the war service corps, shifting their centre of work from one place to another with the tide of war, have come to Changsha. Here are the headquarters of the National Committees of the Chinese Boy Scouts and Girl Guides; the Mass Education Movement Association; the training centres of students and nurses for wartime services; propaganda groups organized by students, merchants, labourers, wartime dramatic troupes. Among these patriotic organizations from other parts appeared the Hunan People's Enemy Resisting and National Salvation Association.

Thousands of able-bodied Hunanese have already attached to the "fronts" in Changsha in the Provincial Conscription Headquarters with General Chang Ching-chung, (Chairman of Hunan as the commander-in-Chief, the long columns of keen young recruits who daily march along Changsha's thoroughfares, reveal the might of Hunan's man-power.—C.I.U.

THOUSANDS JOIN UP

These war-aid organizations have turned Changsha into another nerve-centre of China at war. Their volunteers are seen everywhere. Swarms of them, in uniforms and holding banners are ceaselessly hastening to patriotic meetings or parades or going to the countryside to sound the call to arms among the peasants. Their war slogans, posters and cartoons plaster the walls.

Then there are China's wounded soldiers. Fifteen thousand of them are now in base hospitals in Changsha. Since the war began, about 80,000 have been treated in the various hospitals of the Chinese Army Medical Service in the Hunan capital. More than 20,000 have marched back to the war front to fight in China's Honour Battalions, composed of men who have shed blood for their country.

TWO HEROES

The entire Changsha population have been mourning two of China's dead heroes. The late Brigadier General Li Pi-fan and Huang Chieh-ming made their supreme sacrifice for the defence of Hohen on the southern Shantung front during May. Both belonged to Hunan.

FOOTBALL ASSOCIATION HAVE GOOD YEAR

Appeal For Sportsmanship Has Desired Result

A very successful year was reviewed by the Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith, C.M.G., when he presided at the annual general meeting of the Hong Kong Football Association, held in the Board Room of the South China Morning Post Ltd., yesterday.

In the course of his speech the Hon. Mr. Smith said that it was most gratifying that the appeal for sportsmanship made last year has had such satisfactory results. He also congratulated the South China Athletic Association for their enterprise in inviting the Islington Corinthians out here for the visit which has done so much good for football in Hong Kong.

THE HON. MR. N. L. SMITH

The Chairman said:—
At the last annual general meeting a warning note was sounded regarding the financial position of the Association, and certain measures of economy, such as the increase of entrance fees and a reduction in referees' and linesmen's fees, were recommended for the consideration of the incoming Council.

At an extraordinary general meeting held on September 20 last, alterations to rules were accordingly passed on these lines. It was, however, intimated at that meeting that if at the end of the season the Association should have sufficient funds in its hands the referees for the first division would be paid their usual fees, namely, $5 per match; but that should the Association have not the money to discharge such a liability, the referees for the first division would be paid a reduced fee.

The loss of $36.90 only on the year's account must therefore be considered highly satisfactory, particularly in view of the abnormal conditions prevailing throughout the whole of last season. By the exercise of the strictest economy and with the assistance of two exhibition matches which brought in the sum of $317.96, the present satisfactory position has been attained.

AN EVENTFUL YEAR

The year under review must be considered one of the most eventful in the history of the Association. Acting on the recommendation of the annual general meeting, drastic changes in the constitution of the League took place. The number of teams participating in the First Division was limited to not more than twelve, and the Third Division was divided into two sections in order to cater for the increased number of teams entered for that Division.

DIFFICULT PROBLEM

The reorganization of the First Division presented a difficult problem to the League Management Committee. Thirteen teams entered, and in view of the Committee's decision to limit this Division to twelve teams only, the application of the Chinese Athletic Association was rejected. This Club appealed and the appeal was upheld by the Appeals Board, and the compilation of the league fixture list was left in abeyance pending the result of this appeal. Then the unfortunate conflict in the North made it uncertain as to the number of Army Teams entering the League, and the Royal Navy was also unable to state definitely whether or not they could enter a team. Ultimately the Chinese

TENNIS

INTEREST IN C.R.C.-I.R.C. MATCH

Interest will no doubt be centred on the postponed "A" Division League Match between the Chinese Recreation Club and the Indian Recreation Club, which will now be played on Sunday, on the C.R.C. Courts, Causeway Bay, commencing at 5 p.m. The result of this match will have an important bearing on the destiny of the shield, as a victory for the Chinese means their keeping the shield for the seventh year in succession, whilst a defeat necessitates a replay.

This is unfortunate for the Indians should they win, in that they are two points behind the C.R.C. due to the fact that they suffered a setback against the Hong Kong Cricket Club when they met earlier in the season. It must be mentioned, however, that the Indians were not fully represented in this match, due to the non-participation of H. D. Rumjahn on account of illness.

STRICT TRAINING

The players, who have been chosen to represent both the C.R.C. and the I.R.C. for their encounter on Sunday, have been putting in some strict training during the past week or so, and as all the three pairs seem to be very evenly matched, some really first class and interesting tennis should be witnessed.

The I.R.C. team has been considerably strengthened by the inclusion of Omar Rumjahn, who, before his departure for Hong Kong, was reputed to be one of the best doubles players in North China.

The following is the respective line-up of the two Clubs—

C.R.C.

Tsui Yun Pui and Paul Kong, W. C. Hung and Tsui Wai Pui, Lee Wai Tong and D. C. Luk.

I.R.C.

S. A. Rumjahn and Omar Rumjahn, H. D. Rumjahn and A. H. Madar, A. R. Minu and I. M. A. Razack.

AUSTRALIANS IN GOOD POSITION

London, July 13.

The Australian cricket tourists were in a good position at the end of today's play in their match against Warwickshire at Birmingham.

Warwickshire totalled only 179 when they were put in by the visitors. J. S. Ord was the only batsman who was able to deal with the Australian attack and hit up 61 in 120 minutes.

Warwickshire started off quite well, but lost their last five wickets for only 10 runs.

F. A. Ward spun the ball cleverly to take four wickets for 28 runs.

In reply the Australians had scored 202 for one wicket at close of play. Don Bradman, the captain, claimed another century, hitting up 118 not out in 140 minutes. Included in his best scoring strokes were 11 fours.

W. A. Brown, the Australian opening batsman, gave his skipper splendid support and was 66 not out.—(Reuter).

SUSSEX LOSE AT HOVE

Notts Win At Their Ease

In view of the success that attended the bowlers on the first two days of the match at Hove, the task of making 325 runs which Sussex set Nottinghamshire looked to be a formidable one, recently.

As it happened, however, the pitch played easily all day, and Nottinghamshire hit off the runs without ever being in a difficult situation. They won by four wickets.

Overnight 70 runs had been scored for the loss of Harris, and here were 113 runs on the board before another wicket fell. Then Keeton, having helped to add 68 with Knowles, trod on his wicket.

The ball never moved about in such disconcerting manner; it seldom rose stump high.

AMPLE TIME

Consequently the Nottinghamshire batsmen, with ample time in which to make the runs, were able to take things steadily. Knowles was particularly careful to hit only the really bad balls.

Gunn played the highest innings of the day. He drove hard when opportunity served, and after taking two hours to make 50 added another 33 runs in much better time. He and Heane, who hit skilfully on the leg side, shared in a fourth-wicket partnership of 108 in about an hour and a half.

The position when these two batsmen were separated was that Nottinghamshire required 59 to win. Three wickets fell quickly, including that of Gunn, who hit eight 4's, but Wheat and Larwood, who came together with 38 wanted to finish the game, had soon won the match.

PAUL ROBESON'S ETON VISIT

Paul Robeson gave a recital recently in School Hall, Eton College.

About 500 Senior boys attended, together with the Head Master, Mr. Claude Elliott, and the majority of the masters.

The programme included all Robeson's best known songs, ending with "Old Man River" in which the boys all joined and which they encored several times.

LANCASHIRE BEAT HAMPSHIRE

The combined work of Pollard and Rhodes, who between them took 17 wickets, played a big part in Lancashire's victory over Hampshire at Manchester recently by 10 wickets.

Hampshire were in a difficult position at the beginning of the day when with only three first innings wickets left, they were 148 behind, and they quickly lost these for the addition of only 22.

Hampshire, therefore, had to follow on 168 behind, and, on a moist, if not really difficult, pitch, the visitors never looked like saving the game.

With only five runs scored, Holt was bowled by Pollard, which kept low, but for a time Lancashire were defied by McCorkell and Bailey, who added 35.

Then Rhodes accounted for both McCorkell and Cresswell, but Bailey batted attractively until he played on at 104. He made his 51 in 95 minutes and alone mastered the conditions.

Brokers In The "Alleys"

A very enjoyable afternoon was spent by members of the Hong Kong Stock Exchange and Hong Kong Sharebrokers' Association at the Hong Kong Bowling Alleys yesterday when the two "bungs" engaged in a friendly bowling match, the result being an easy win for the Stock Exchange.

A large number of spectators, including many ladies, watched the matches with great interest, and when the alleys were free many of the spectators took a hand at the game themselves.

The scores were:—
STOCK EXCHANGE: F. R. Zimmern 153 and 123; S. A. Jamall 136 and 103; M. Weill 132 and 99; L. Weill 120 and 98; R. Preston 100 and 99; J. Silva 124 and 96; C. Basso 88 and 87; H. B. Joseph 86 and 101; S. E. Edgar 98 and 101.

SHAREBROKERS: ASSN.: J. R. Graze 76 and 88; W. J. Carroll 42 and 73; Sun Yeung 54 and 35; C.

Although the wicket did not suit his style, Pollard took 10 wickets for 103 runs and brought his total of wickets for the season to 61. Rhodes, the Eton club professional, took seven wickets for 87 runs.

LAWN BOWLS RESULTS

In the Lawn Bowls Colony Singles Championships played at the Hong Kong Bowling Club's rink yesterday, Gomes beat Phillips 21-18, Kelly beat Nash 21-16.
